INTRODUCTION

AT PET CARE INSURANCE (PCI), we understand that dog walkers have unique insurance and business needs that differ from the rest of the pet care industry. This is why PCI was created: to provide dog walking professionals with insurance tailored to their needs. And now, we want help you understand insurance better.

You might be thinking that you don't need insurance, but there are many incidents that could potentially leave you at fault for injuries, damages, and even the death of the pets you care for. The infographic below provides a look into the very real claims PCI clients have faced.

TOP 5 MOST COMMON PET CARE INSURANCE CLAIMS

1 ATE SOMETHING 30%

A cat ate some string and had to be taken to the vet to remove the string and have other emergency care.

2 HIT BY A CAR 21%

A dog escaped from a dog walker and was hit and killed by a car.

3 LOCKSMITH SERVICES 21%

A pet care provider lost a client's keys and the home had to have all of the locks replaced.

4 DEATH OF A PET 14%

A dog was found dead at its home after the pet care provider left and the pet care provider was held responsible.

5 INJURY ILLNESS 14%

While in the care of a pet care provider, a dog began limping. The dog was taken to the vet and it was discovered to have a torn ACL.

COVERAGE ELIGIBILITY & COST

As a DOG WALKER, you want insurance that meets your business's needs. That's why Pet Care Insurance offers a policy that you can customize to your business.

The basic policy starts at only $139 and provides 365 days of coverage; however, there are additional options that you may add for an additional premium. To help you estimate your final cost, we will go over the most common professions and the insurance costs that are associated with them.

DOG WALKER INSURANCE DETAILS

The basic insurance policy from PCI is designed for pet sitters. This policy will also provide you with coverage for basic grooming (i.e., bathing and brushing) and basic training (i.e., teaching sit, stay, and come), as long as it is in conjunction with dog walking or pet sitting.

If, as a dog walker, your grooming and training services exceed these definitions, you will need to add a pet training or grooming endorsement to your basic dog walker policy. Additionally, if your business operations include breeding or pet boarding, then you will be unable to purchase a policy from PCI. However, we do have a partner who may be able to meet your needs, so be sure to contact us for more information.

PCI does have some exclusions for pet sitters. These include, but are not limited to, operations such as landscaping and breeding. If you provide any of our excluded services, PCI would be unable to provide you with an insurance policy.

GENERAL LIABILITY

ONE REASON many dog walkers purchase insurance is for protection against general liability claims. Most often, these claims involve third party bodily injury, property damage, personal and advertising injury, or environmental damage. Each of these coverages types will be defined in your policy.

Some of the limits for a PCI policy are outlined below.

FOR GENERAL LIABILITY CLAIMS, PET CARE INSURANCE PROVIDES:

$1,000,000 coverage per occurrence

$2,000,000 aggregate coverage†

For Products-Completed Operations PCI provides:

$2,000,000 $2,000,000 aggregate coverage†

For Personal and Advertising Injury PCI provides:

$1,000,000 aggregate coverage†

†Aggregate coverage is the most PCI would pay for that type of claim per year

EMPLOYEE DISHONESTY COVERAGE VS. BONDING

AS THE OWNER of a dog walking business, you have probably heard about bonding and that it's a good idea for your business. But what does it actually mean?

If you're looking for a bond, it's most likely because you are looking for a way to protect your business against employee theft or dishonesty. However, bonding isn't the only way to get this protection. Another—potentially better—option for dog walkers might be PCI's dishonesty coverage. Take a look below at these two options to discover which one might be best for your business.

BONDING

While bonds are the most frequently discussed option to protect your dog walking business in the event of a dishonest employee, they have several disadvantages. For example, they often require a second transaction in addition to your insurance purchase. Other disadvantages include:

- A credit check is often required
- The "conviction clause" (the bonding company won't pay unless there is a conviction)
- Being required to reimburse the bonding company after the claim is paid

EMPLOYEE DISHONESTY COVERAGE

Employee dishonesty coverage is an effective alternative to bonding. In fact, the coverage is very similar to a bond, but they mainly differ in process and application. Advantages of Pet Care Insurance's dishonesty coverage are that it:

- Can be purchased in one transaction with PCI insurance
- Doesn't require reimbursement
- Doesn't require a credit check
- Provides you with $10,000 per occurrence coverage and $25,000 aggregate coverage

5

ANIMAL BAILEE (CARE, CUSTODY, OR CONTROL)

THIS IS ONE of the primary exposures faced by dog walkers. PCI's base policy includes animal bailee coverage, which gives you coverage in the event that an animal in your care, custody, or control is injured or dies and you are held legally liable.

As a dog walker, if you were playing with or walking a pet and it broke its leg or sustained an injury, you might be held responsible. Having animal bailee would respond with the protection you need.

When you purchase insurance through PCI, animal bailee coverage is included in the basic policy; however, there are options to increase your limits for an additional cost. These limits include:

$5,000 per occurrence and $10,000 aggregate† (included in base policy)

$10,000 per occurrence and $20,000 aggregate† (+$19 premium)

$15,000 per occurrence and $30,000 aggregate† (+29 premium)

†Aggregate coverage is the most PCI would pay for that type of claim per year

VETERINARY EXPENSE REIMBURSEMENT

MUCH LIKE ANIMAL BAILEE, veterinary expense reimbursement coverage responds when a pet is injured; however, it will function a little differently. Animal bailee requires that you be at fault for the pet's injuries. Veterinary expense reimbursement provides coverage regardless of who is at fault.

Take a look at this example: before you arrive to pick up a client's dog, she eats something that makes her sick. Later, during a walk in the park, her symptoms manifest and she starts vomiting and you take her to the vet where she is treated and her medical bills cost you $700. You would pay the vet $700, file your claim with PCI and the policy will reimburse you minus the applicable deductible.

Here's a quick look at the Pet Care Insurance limits for veterinary expense reimbursement:

$1,000 per occurrence and $5,000 aggregate†

$250 deductible

†Aggregate coverage is the most PCI would pay for that type of claim per year

7

COVERAGE FOR LOST KEYS

MANY DOG WALKING PROFESSIONALS have keys to their clients' homes. If you were to lose the keys to a client's home, you could be responsible for the cost to re-key or replace the home's locks.

Having a locksmith re-key or replace locks can cost thousands of dollars. When you purchase a dog walking insurance policy from Pet Care Insurance, you get coverage for lost keys in your base policy. The limits for lost keys include:

$2,000 per occurrence

$2,000 aggregate†

†Aggregate coverage is the most PCI would pay for that type of claim per year
